Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 15 May 2006.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 13-22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 13-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U/S. Patent No. 6,414,388 to Moriyama.

With respect to claim 13, Moriyama discloses an apparatus comprising a first printed circuit board 4 for highly complex semiconductors having at least one optical image-recording sensor 3, and a second printed circuit board 7 for remaining, less complex components, a metallic base plate 2 having mounted thereon at least one of the first printed circuit board and said second printed circuit board.

With respect to claim 14, Moriyama is silent as to an amount of adhesive being used for attaching the at least one printed circuit board to said metallic base plate, however it is inherent that an adhesive is used.

With respect to claim 15, Moriya is silent as to the elements connected on the printed circuit board, however such would have been obvious according to the components of the imaging device.

With respect to claims 16 and 17, Moriyama fails to disclose the image-generation device being configured for installation in a roof area of a motor vehicle for object detection exterior to and/or interior of the vehicle. However, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to use the device in any given environment since such is considered intended use.

With respect to claims 18 and 19, Moriyama fails to disclose that the first or second printed circuit board has thermal pads, vias, or Peltier elements. However, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to include thermal pads as means of insulating the board from heat damage.

With respect to claim 20, Moriyama discloses that the image-generation device comprises optics means.

With respect to claim 21, Moriyama discloses wherein the optics means are pre-assembled together with a housing or retention means.

With respect to claim 22, Moriyama fails to disclose wherein the PCB is board assembled with at least one of chip-on-board and flip-chip technology.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 23-33 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
